The day fulling delight.

(Harry Potter when he went to Hogwards.)

"Oh, my God, I am really here. It can not be truth" - I said to myself. I went straight and saw a lot of pictures and persons on they were moving and talking. I felt like I was situated in the magic dream. Finally, I was not alone. With me was my new friend Ron. And I thought that there was something special in our friendship. We met our new teacher. It was old woman, who was in the strict black clothes. She was scary.

We went to eat. I came in a large room. Looking the tables I saw so many food. There was everything, that everyone could wish. We started to eat, and it was fantastic. I had never ate so delicious meal. I would remember this taste always. When we ate something, it had appeared again. It was magical

After dinner The Magic Hat said that I must learned on the Griffind I was so happy, because my friends were already there. Besides it meant that I was brave boy.

My new friends seemt very funny guys. I liked it.

Being here, in Hogwards I started to forget my difficult childhood, my pain from parents' death lessed.

My teachers thought that I was very smart student and I would become a great magician. I don't know how I must reacted on it. I only knew that I liked to study here very much. I had never been so happy.

Did I miss my home? – No. This family never loved me. I felt like I finally found my place in this world, found people who could become my new real family. I was so excited because of it.
