Writing

"One story to a film"

What is it like to see a desert full of lions in your own house? ~~The book~~. I want to tell readers of this magazine about the book 'Veld' by Ray Bradbury that will show you this. The author writes about frightening future, but this future is close to mankind. The main characters are Vendi and Peter and their parents. The story begins with the view of adults, standing in ~~their~~ kids' room and looking at wild lions walking there. It's the imagination of Vendi and Peter made almost as real with the help of modern technologies. Parents are scared because of mental health of their children, but it seems too late to be were. When they try to close the room, kids hit them for a being too angry.

This story is cruel nowadays, because it shows such popular problems as, for example, parents dealing with their children. When adults don't pay enough attention to kids, they grow up it affects their mental state a lot. Moreover, the book shows the problem of modern technologies. Is it bad or good for us? Ray Bradbury shows, that if we don't stop, continue to use technologies everywhere, we will become useless and die, not leaving an opportunity to live another way.

It should be made into a film for people who have challenges at being a parent, or in relationships with parents as a kid. Otherwise the cast of a movie should consist of people interested in such questions. Otherwise talking about the themes, this 'Veld' as a film will help us to see, that we should be careful with technologies. 264
