Writing

Film from the book - just a dream or ... ?

It goes without saying that every educated person has a favourite book, which he or she would like to see as a film. So, is it possible or is it just our dream? In most cases it depends on reader's wish and director's opportunities. Who knows? Maybe one day you will see the film from your favourite book.

Recently I have read one interesting book called "Howl's Moving Castle" by Diana Wynne Jones. It tells us a story about a young girl, who was turned to an elderly woman by a witch. The girl, ²whom name is Sophie, has to go through a lot of difficulties and challenges. Moreover, she has to deal with the witch to turn back into a girl. The book's plot is very exciting. Besides, the genre of the book is fantasy, so it was ²amazing experience to read it.

^P There is one crucial thing about this book. It is animated into an animated film, but watching ^{2P}real ~~film~~ film would be more ²great. More than that, a filmmaker can make a film basing on this animation. It would be also simpler to choose a cast for the film. To satisfy all the reader's ²wishes about the film, the filmmaker should ~~to~~ pay attention on ²cast's play, soundtracks, actors and screenplay.

It is a great idea to make a screen version of this book, because you can see real actors' ^Pplay and naturality of every moment. Also ~~it~~ this ~~book~~ film would be a real best-seller and public won't forget this film.
