Writing

There ² a lot of films in the world that are based on books such as "Harry Potter" and "The Lord ^{the} of Rings", but there are lots ^{amazing} of books that ~~do not~~ do not have their film adaptation. But ~~I have~~ you can offer a good idea of the film adaptation of one little story, and it will be a great deal. If someone in the future make it into a film.

This book is called "Black Monk" by Chekhov and I want to tell you about the plot in a few words. This story ^{tells} tells us about the happiness of insanity and ~~terrifying~~ awful consequences that this madness cause. ~~And I think~~ The main hero of the book was a genius with a great future, but his mental problems broke lives of his wife, her dad and destroy the magnificent garden. Korrin, the hero, made a lot of mistakes and there is a crucial twist of the story: after receiving a letter from his ex-wife, that is about Tanya, his ex-wife want to have a revenge on Korrin, he listened to music that brought him to the memories of happiness of the past and then he died with the smile on his face. This is plot of the book without any details. Also, I think there can be some problems with the finding an appropriate cast, because there are must be real professionals, because it can be challenging to ^{show} the ^{-feeling} real feeling of excitement of Korrins or the pain of Tanya. Also film must depict the ~~the~~ colourful and great garden, because it is an important part of the story.

In conclusion, I want to say that it is a good idea to make a screen version of Black Monk because it will be a film with beautiful backgrounds, bright and interesting actors and extraordinary plot.
